FOREWORD

Time will efface many of the memories which we hold of our alma mater, but this book of memoirs will serve to recall for us the many happy days which we spent at Huntington. The joy of success and the heart-break of defeat are but a few of the emotions which we have attempted to capture in this book. With love for our school and our parents, we proudly present . . .

THROUGH THESE HALLS

DEDICATION

MRS. LILA B. HOLLOWAY

It is with the deepest sense of pride that the graduating class of 1966 dedicates its book of memoirs to one who has given unselfishly of her time and energy. Mrs. Lila B. Holloway, the school nurse, has distinguished herself as a patient, understanding, and generous friend. Through her twelve years of prudent counseling in the capacity of Huntington's nurse, many students have received comforting and reassuring advice relative to their health problems. To her we express our admiration.

Nurse Holloway records the complaints of Rose Hilliard, Shirley Eason, Kenneth Hartwell, and Ezekiel Holley before they enter the main area of the clinic for treatment.

A graduate of Hampton Institute, Mrs. L. B. Holloway has witnessed many changes in the health program at Huntington. Having served as a part-time nurse, dividing her time between Huntington and one of the elementary schools, she has now taken charge of the health services at Huntington on a full-time basis.

After a full day in the clinic, Nurse Holloway locks up the examining room and goes home to prepare for another day.

THE SNOWS CAME . . .

On January 26, 1966, no one dreamed that school would be closed for eight days; but because of the impassable ice-covered roads, each passing day found us sleeping later than usual and visiting friends. So great was the snow that all final exams were canceled and our cramming was in vain.

NO FOOTBALL IN THIS WEATHER!

A blanket of snow on the field upon which many of our victories were gained covers the many cleat marks from our final home game.

AND MELTED

"If winter be here, can spring be far behind?"

ADMINISTRATION

BOARD OF EDUCATION DISCUSSES SCHOOL FINANCES

The Board of Education, composed of seven Newport News citizens, is dedicated to the proper maintenance and administration of the city's schools.

Mr. J. M. Dozier, chairman of the school board, gets a first-hand look at the operation of Huntington during his inspection tour.

Mr. Ward R. Scull, Mr. Gordon F. Pullen, Dr. J. T. Jobe, III, Mr. J. M. Dozier, Mr. Richard Newman, Dr. C. Waldo Scott, Dr. W. T. Watkins, Jr.

MR. G. McINTOSH ASSUMES NEW POST

With the passing of years, Mr. George McIntosh has risen to the post of Superintendent of the Newport News Schools. Having served as a principal, and a director of personnel in the school system, he must now meet the insurmountable demands of administering six high schools 29 elementary schools.

Mr. McIntosh chats with school board member Mr. Gordon F. Pullen prior to one of the monthly meetings.

PRINCIPAL MEETS CHALLENGE OF ADMINISTERING HIGH SCHOOL

For many years Mr. W. D. Scales has provided many of us with information and inspiration so vital for a rewarding and enjoyable future. He has administered in such a way that few students have been able to forget his humor, kindness, and generosity. He is a symbol of order, loyalty, sincerity, dedication, and courage. Let no unkind fate dim these qualities which have lighted a torch for so many in the past, which illumines present paths, and which will light new vistas for the future.

Mr. Scales takes time out from a busy schedule to greet the photographer.

Lending an attentive ear to Mr. C. N. Carter, chairman of social sciences, Mr. Scales discusses the annual spring tour to Washington for the student body.

An exciting evening of basketball is enough to remove temporarily the school problems from the minds of Mr. C. C. Johnson, assistant principal, and Mr. Scales.

Incidentally, Huntington outwitted the opponent by a score of 73-62.

Emergencies often occur, and the telephone becomes a vital instrument in the effective administering of Huntington.

ASSISTANT PRINCIPAL OVERSEES IBM

With the on-surge of IBM at Huntington, Mr. C. C. Johnson finds his work simplified (???). This is no less true of Mrs. F. King who is charged with the responsibility of assisting in the management of the mechanistic innovation.

As assistant principal for five years, Mr. Johnson has seen many vital changes in the workings of the school, the most outstanding change being the institution of the International Business Machine. A two-session summer school program, the enlargement of the school structure, and the abolishment of the conventional report cards have served to point out the need for an efficient school official.

STUDENT ASSISTANT AT WORK
As the demands for efficiency become greater, it becomes necessary to solicit the aid of student assistants in the office. Such a practice gives Doris Joyner, a senior, practical secretarial experience.

MRS. E. M. GREEN COMPLETES 17th YEAR AS DIRECTOR OF GUIDANCE

The secret to Mrs. E. M. Green's success as an astute counselor and a successful horticulturist may be attributed to her belief that students, like plants, must be cared for in order for them to grow up-right. As chairman of the guidance department since its infancy in 1949, she has exhibited compassion and keen human insight in dealing with the many problems which students who seek her counsel encounter.

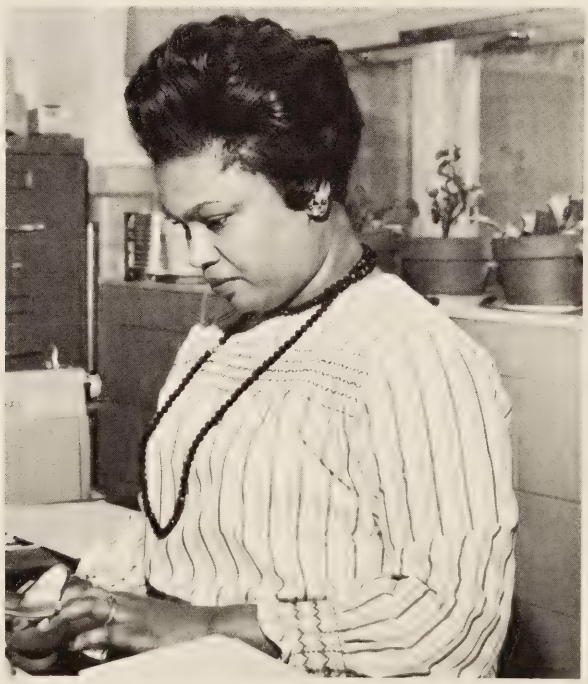
Paulette Taylor pays a visit to Mrs. Green for wise counsel concerning college requirements and personal achievement.

SECRETARIES FIND JOB A CHALLENGE

An effectively run school requires efficient secretaries. With the insurmountable piles of data to be maintained and the many letters and transcripts to be sent to various high schools and colleges, the nine-hour work day of the school's secretaries can prove to be hectic. However, there is never a dull moment for them, and they never lose the pleasing attitude which accompanies their job.

Following the devotions by the individual homerooms, Mrs. V. James makes the morning announcements for the day.

MRS. L. KEA

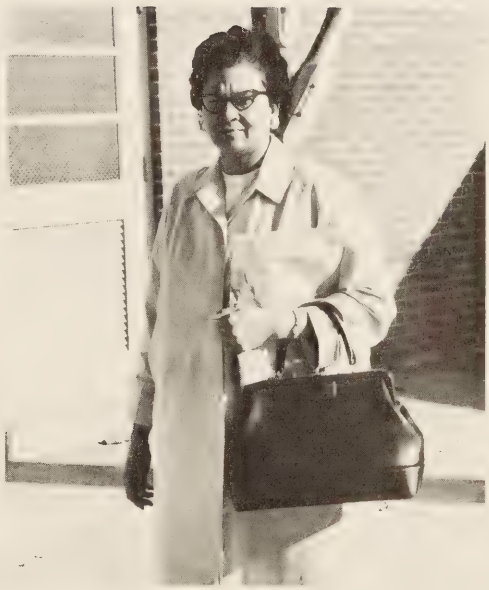


A complete and accurate recording of all students' grades is one of the responsibilities of Mrs. H. Lawson. Years after graduation, former Huntington students often request the school to send transcripts to schools and prospective employers.

Pupil accounting must be done with a high degree of efficiency. It necessitates the daily typing of a list to be distributed to all teachers -- that's only a part of Mrs. B. Seabron's job.

MRS. B. SEABRON

Mrs. L. Kea, who is known for her tranquil manner, contributes much to the success of the school's program, for she is the bookkeeper.

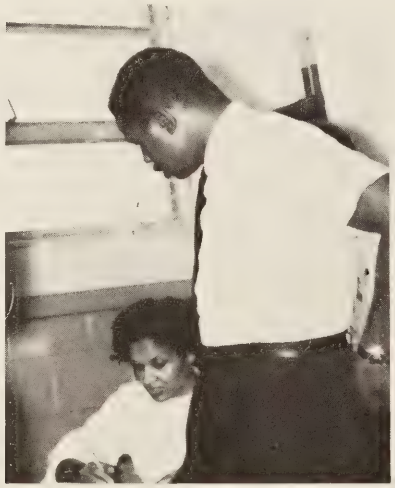


The roving camera catches Mrs. L. Kea as she embarks on her trip to the bank to deposit the school funds.

NURSE HOLLOWAY KEEPS ACCURATE HEALTH RECORDS

In the confines of her office, Mrs. L. Holloway confers with a parent in an endeavor to obtain vital information concerning a student's health.

Counseling on hygenic practices is but one of the many tasks which Mrs. Holloway must face.



Mr. R. Hearst pays his annual visit to the clinic for his flu shot.

FACULTY

ENGLISH STRESSES READING, WRITING AND SPEAKING

MR. W. B. THOMAS

MRS. R. C. COLLINS

Effective communication is becoming increasingly important in today's society. The English department strives to prepare students for the competitive world that they must face as adults. Consequently, the teachers stress the development and improvement of skills in reading, writing, and speaking.

Celestine Charity's classmates in English IX listen attentively to her discourse in order to offer constructive criticisms, while Mr. W. B. Thomas looks on approvingly.

COLLEGE CREDIT AT HUNTINGTON
Students in advanced placement English prepare for a seminar on "Macbeth" under the careful eyes of Mrs. P. Holman. Such credits earned in this class may be applied to college credit next fall.

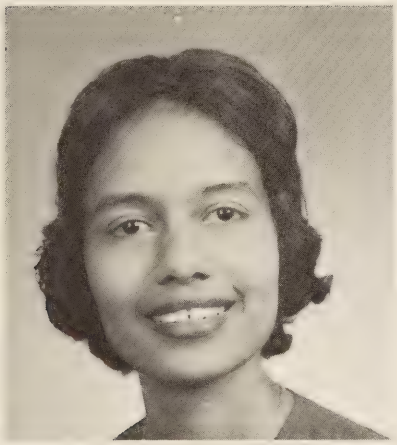
MRS. M. KING



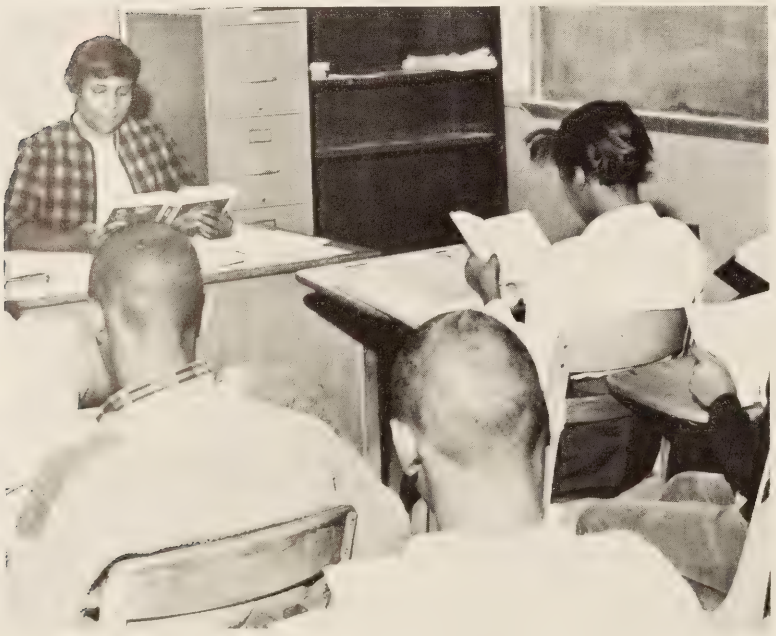
MRS. L. GARRETT

Mrs. Eva Fleming shows Barbara Huggins, a sophomore, that one does learn by making mistakes, but that one should also correct her mistakes.

THE PROBLEMS OF ENGLISH

Composition writing is the order of the day in Mrs. P. Holman's English IX class; but something is amiss! While the students have their problems, Mrs. Holman's problem is to dislodge a stray staple from the machine.

MRS. P. BRAXTON



Reading has become an integral part of the curriculum at Huntington, and Mrs. Braxton applies her teaching skills in an effort to improve the reading comprehension of her eighth grade pupils.

LANGUAGES OFFER OPPORTUNITIES

Each new invention in the fields of communication and transportation shrinks the world and brings countries closer together. Some students desire knowledge of the language and customs of neighboring countries, and for this reason, Huntington offers French and Spanish.

The Spanish class follows Mr. Lawrence's reading as he demonstrates how the lesson for today should be read.

MRS. N. GRANDBERRY

MR. D. LAWRENCE

MISS L. FRAZIER

Madame Grandberry's class has the advantage of meeting in the language lab to gain experience in listening to conversations in French.

SOCIAL SCIENCE

Social Science Brings Adventures

A greater appreciation of local, national, and international affairs is the goal of the social sciences at Huntington. Teachers attempt to prepare students for the place they must take in the modern world by explaining the intricate mechanisms of today's governments and the influences of history upon the development of the present systems.

THE MANY JOBS OF A TEACHER

In addition to teaching his classes in U. S. Government and history, Mr. D. Barr spends an evening at the gymnasium, serving as sports announcer. In the meantime his co-worker, Mr. G. Davis, watches the progress of the game.

SCIENCE OPENS DOORS TO NEW VISTAS

While man extends his quest for knowledge into the realm of outer space, teachers in the science department stress the importance of a scientific background necessary for a deeper understanding and appreciation of these events. All students are required to take basic science courses which will enable them to understand their environment. Students who wish to expand their knowledge are offered more specialized courses.

MR. H. ALSTON

MISS L. SPAULDING

Much preparation is required for a class in biology; so Mr. H. Alston, supervisor of audio-visual aids, examines a recent publication for new developments in the area he plans to discuss in his next teaching unit.

CLEANLINESS PLAYS AN IMPORTANT ROLE IN THE LABORATORY
Miss G. Fortune demonstrates that no experiment can be valid unless the equipment used is clean.

MRS. C. BRAXTON

Larry Johnson, a sophomore, observes Mr. W. Lewis as he explains auxiliary views to the class.

VOCATIONAL EDUCATION EXPANDS PROGRAM

Practical knowledge in technological and creative areas, such as electronics and drafting, is the objective of the vocational education department. Students acquire basic fundamentals which enable them to qualify for jobs upon graduation.

While not confining itself to trade skills, the vocational department instills in its students an appreciation of the aesthetic value of well-designed and constructed projects.

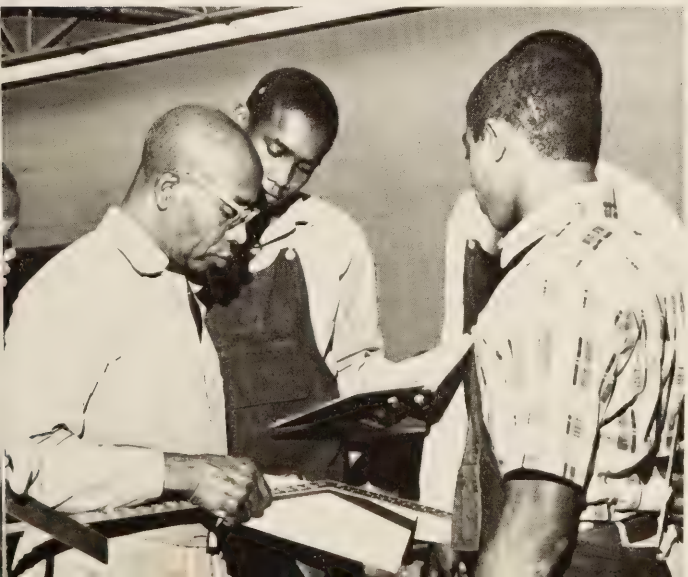
A HOUSE BUILT ON A WEAK FOUNDATION
WILL NOT STAND

Mr. H. Smith tests George Lovelace's construction with the level to determine the accuracy with which he has worked.



Harry Johnson, Jerry Bishop, Bobby Shelton, Lance Jones, and a fellow student observe the demonstration which Mr. W. Jones is giving on the square.

Mastery of the typewriter is accomplished only through many hours of practice. Mrs. C. Hines keeps a watchful eye on her students, Rose Hilliard (FRONT RIGHT CORNER), Shirley Howard, Yvonne Smith, Rita Hanks, Bert Clarey (SECOND ROW FRONT), Carolyn Parker, Joann Newman, and Elva Johnson, all of whom strive to become proficient typists.

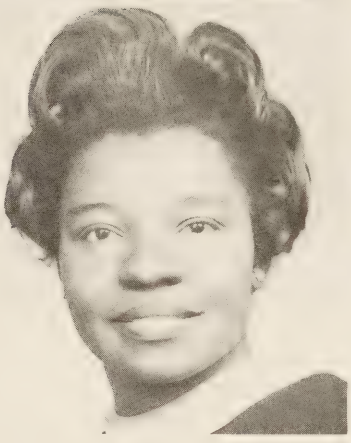
Business machines need TLC (tender, loving care), and Mr. J. Royster, chairman of the commercial education department is on hand to make the necessary adjustments.

MRS. C. HINES

MR. J. ROYSTER

COMMERCIAL EDUCATION SPURS STUDENTS TO BUSINESS

Employing the latest training methods, the commercial education department acquaints its enrollees with the most modern business procedures and office machinery. Teachers strive to produce efficient office workers who excel in typing, bookkeeping, shorthand, and notehand. Upon the completion of the requirements in the business curriculum, students are better prepared to meet the demands of today's business work force.



MISS C. WYNDER

MRS. T. JONES

MISS R. HALTIWANGER

Miss R. Haltiwanger faces the problems of teaching a class in general business.

The duplicating machine proves to be an asset to Mrs. C. Hines as she prepares for finals.

SPECIAL EDUCATION AIDS STUDENT ADJUSTMENT

Mrs. V. Perry uses visual aids extensively to motivate her students.

In an endeavor to accommodate all students in the community, the special education department was organized. Situated in a part of the building which is specially equipped with materials to meet the immediate needs of the students, the department functions with the cognizance that its students must be aided in developing skills which will some day help them to be well-adjusted and functional citizens in tomorrow's world.

MR. T. HOWELL

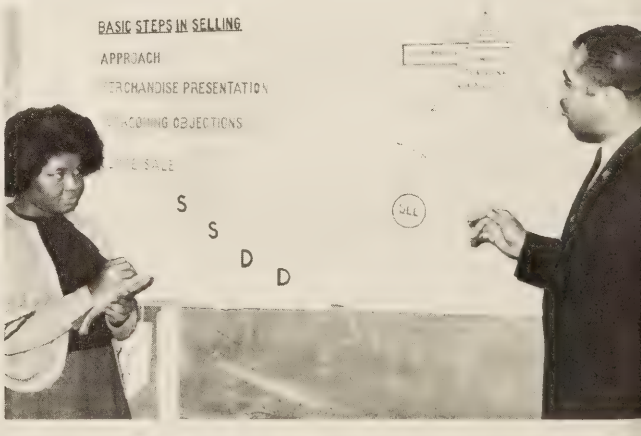
ICT PREPARES FOR IMMEDIATE VOCATION

Industrial cooperative training, including practical nursing and distributive education, is devoted to assisting students in making wise decisions in selecting occupations to which they are best suited. Under the direction of Mr. C. Robinson and Mr. R. Hines, the program is geared toward on-the-job training for students showing high aptitude in a given field.

MR. R. HINES

MR. C. ROBINSON

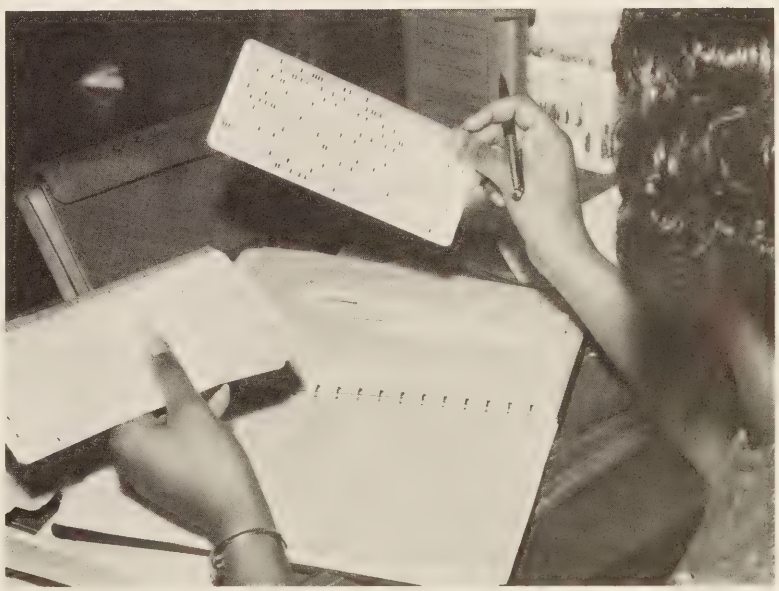
Mr. R. Hines explains the basic steps in good salesmanship to Leona Lee.



A COMPLETED JOB
Mrs. F. King and student assistant Marlene Hall beam with satisfaction over the prompt arrival of the day's attendance sheets.

IBM INVADES HUNTINGTON HIGH

September, 1965 brought with it an innovation which vastly changed the lives of many students and teachers. The work load was lightened, students would be able to get a clear and accurate picture of their attendance records, and the ever-mounting problem of distributing grades would begin to fade. IBM did it all!



IBM attendance cards enable Mrs. K. Wilson to keep an accurate and up-to-date account of her students.

MRS. F. KING

HOME ECONOMICS PREPARES FOR DOMESTIC SUCCESS

MRS. H. LUCAS

Home economics plays a major role at Huntington in the development of good character and traits which will help young women to become good home managers. Open to students from the eighth through the twelfth grades, the department caters to the immediate as well as future needs of the students.

MRS. V. COBB

Mrs. V. Cobb, departmental chairman, lends a helping hand to one of her home economics students.

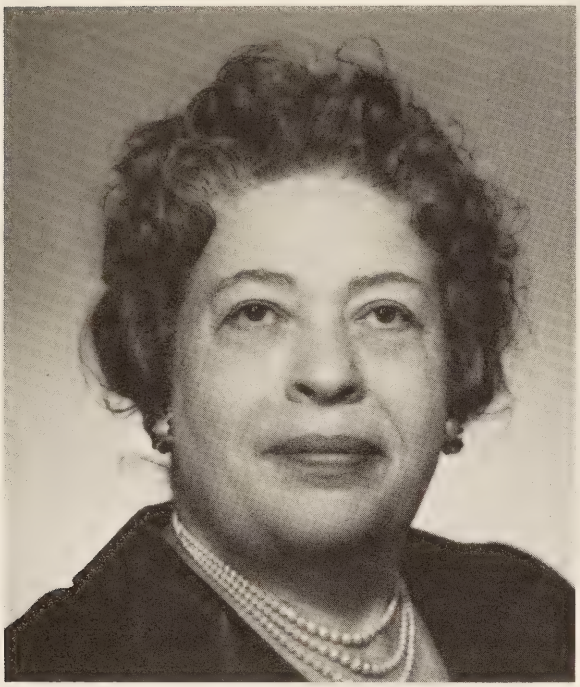
MRS. O. DAWKINS

MRS. M. PALMER

MRS. A. CARTER

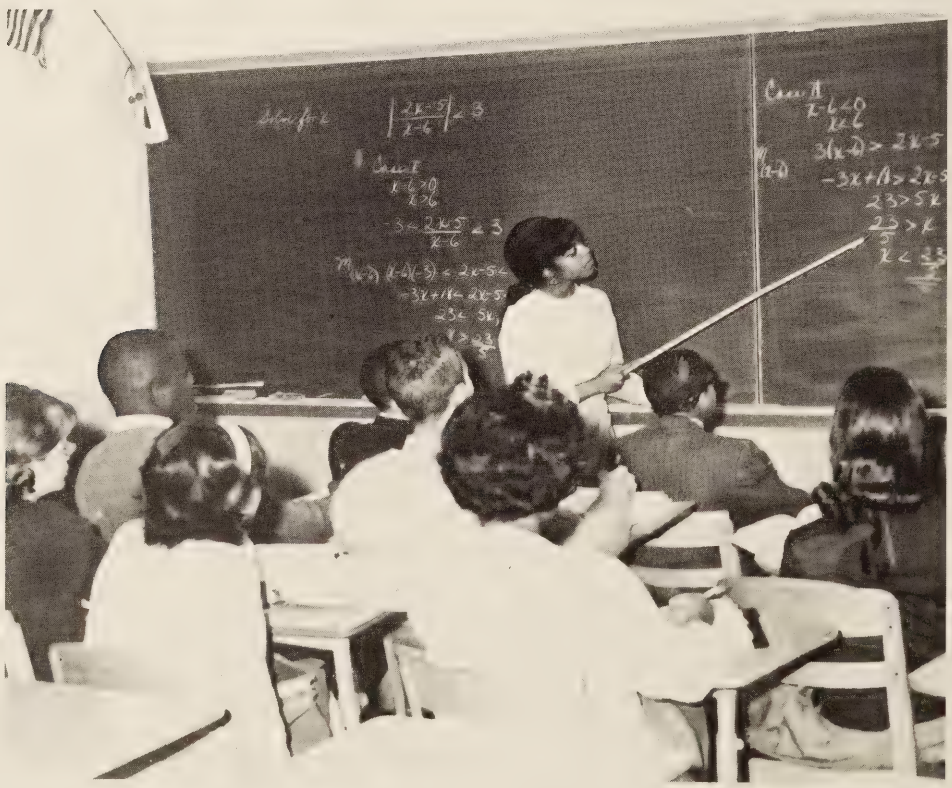
Blanche Johnson learns that inspite of frozen foods and TV dinners, home cooked meals best provide the vital nutrients for a healthy family.

MATHEMATICS, AN EXACT SCIENCE



MISS L. M. WEAVER

Mathematics plays an integral part in the curriculum at Huntington. The department, under the chairmanship of Miss L. M. Weaver, offers terminal courses for students who desire a basic background in mathematics to prepare them for our mathematically orientated society. Advanced courses ranging from algebra to trigonometry provide opportunities for more technical pursuits in science and higher branches of mathematics.



Advanced placement is made available to students who have demonstrated a potential for adjusting to the demands of college mathematics. Vivian Freeman explains to the class procedures for finding the unknown, which in this case is "x."

MISS C. MALLOY

MRS. E. BRYANT

Mrs. E. Bryant points out the ways that the math wheel may be useful in solving problems.

PHYSICAL EDUCATION DEVELOPS BODY AND MIND

Coaches Davis and Hartman discuss the starting line-up for the season's first game.

No school could achieve its academic goals if the students were not physically prepared to absorb the material presented to them. Courses in health make students aware of precautions they must take to maintain their bodies, while the physical aspect emphasizes the significance the physical development of the body through daily exercise.

In days of yore, physical education was confined to the male species. No longer is this the case, for over one thousand girls engage in some form of physical exercise daily. So vital to our nations welfare is a sound body that Huntington now sustains five girls' physical education teachers to meet the ever-increasing demands for sound bodies.

MRS. M. JENNINGS

MRS. B. FRANCIS

In addition to keeping their bodies healthy, students develop skills in recreational games through the demonstrations of Mrs. B. Francis.

FINE ARTS RAISE CULTURAL LEVEL

Many students appreciate the cultural exposure made available to them through the program of the fine arts department. In addition to raising the cultural level of the students at Huntington by creating interest in art and music, the fine arts department provides a medium for the development and expression of student talent in such elective courses as art, choir, and instrumental music, including the strings. Tours to operas and other concerts are frequently planned for the students.

BUDDING MUSICIANS

Mr. W. Herring supervises the playing of Janice Vaughan, Miriam Joyner, and Ivan Huggard, all members of the marching band.

MRS. M. MANN

Mr. A. LEWIS

Art exhibits by students during the band's winter concert provide students with the opportunity to share with members of the community their appreciation of the fine arts.

Self-expression plays a key role in the objectives of the art department.

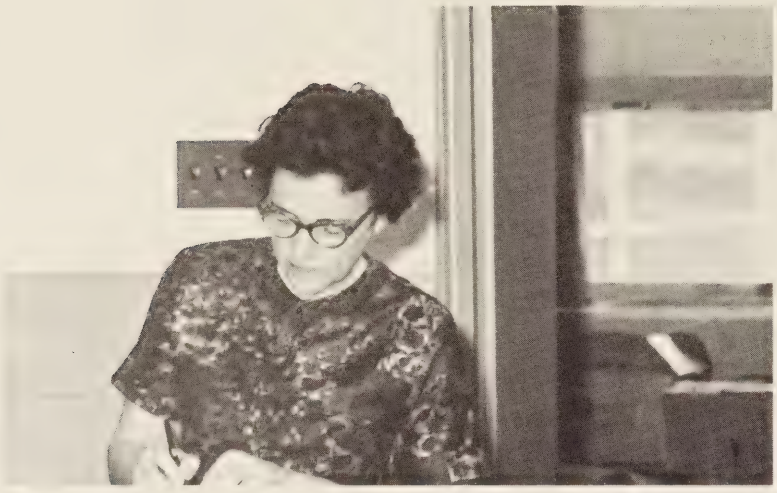
LIBRARY SCIENCE



Mrs. R. Perry makes an accurate accounting of all books which the library purchases.

The library serves as a place for quiet, concentrative study for both students and faculty. It is one of the main sources of information, and its director, Mrs. R. Perry, is there to direct students through the many volumes on the shelves.

MRS. R. MCLEOD

MRS. R. PERRY

Typing the list of delinquent book-holders is one of the many duties of Mrs. R. McLeod, assistant librarian.

Library orientation is a course designed for eighth graders in an endeavor to familiarize them with the working of libraries.

Mrs. McLeod explains the Dewey Decimal Classification to eighth grade students, who visit for ten days.

GUIDANCE ENHANCES CURRICULUM

MRS. M. WILSON

The purpose of guidance is to help students make the right decision when confronted with problems in the home, school and community. A service begun at Huntington with Mrs. E. M. Green organizing the program in 1949, guidance has gained much impetus in its 17 year old history.

Since its beginning the counseling service has grown to the size of two full time counselors and seven working in the capacity of part-time. Counseling is done on all grade levels with special emphasis on the problems peculiar to each grade level.

MRS. M. WILSON COMPLETES THIRD YEAR AS FULL-TIME GUIDANCE PERSONNEL.

Mrs. M. Wilson, who completes her third year as a full-time counselor this June, takes a break from her daily routine to chat with Diane Branch, a first year student. Among Mrs. Wilson's greatest satisfactions has been seeing the successful growth of her counselees, manifesting itself in the favorable reports which have come to Huntington from places far and near. After a busy day at school, Mrs. Wilson goes home to a family and her hobbies, sewing and reading.

CAFETERIA AVERAGES 1,000 DAILY MEALS

CAFETERIA STAFF

Preparing a balanced meal for over one thousand students is quite a task; however, under the direction of Mrs. M. East, the cafeteria staff manages to meet this demand admirably. Parents are able to send their children to school confident that a nutritious and well-balanced meal will be available to them.

An apple, a bouquet of flowers, and a little music enhance a busy day for Mrs. M. East, who checks the final tally of today's meals.

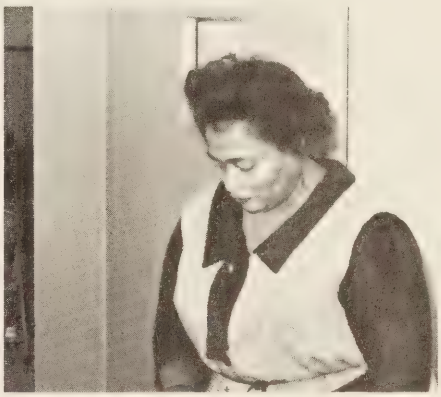
Pleasantries add to the pre-Christmas lunch as Mrs. East makes final preparations for the yuletide rush.

ANNOUNCING THE MENU
Two different selections are offered daily as Mrs. Eley prepares the menu board for today.

TEAM WORK NECESSARY FOR EFFICIENCY
Assisting the baker Mrs. S. Guthrie, Mrs. N. Perry slices the homemake bread to be used in making sandwiches, a specialty to be found in the Viking express lunch line.

BAKING
One item on the menu which all cafeteria supporters relish is the daily bread which Mrs. Guthrie prepares.

STIRRING
Assistant cook, Miss A. Mitchell, stirs up a lucious barbecue, which simmers on the range.



TALLYING
After the fevered rush by hungry students, Mrs. A. O'Neil prepares to report the day's receipts.

FINISHING TOUCH
Ever conscious of the adolescent "sweet-tooth," Mmes. Scott, Berkley, and Jennings enhance the meal with apple cobbler garnished with cheese.

JANITORIAL STAFF KEEPS A TIDY BUILDING

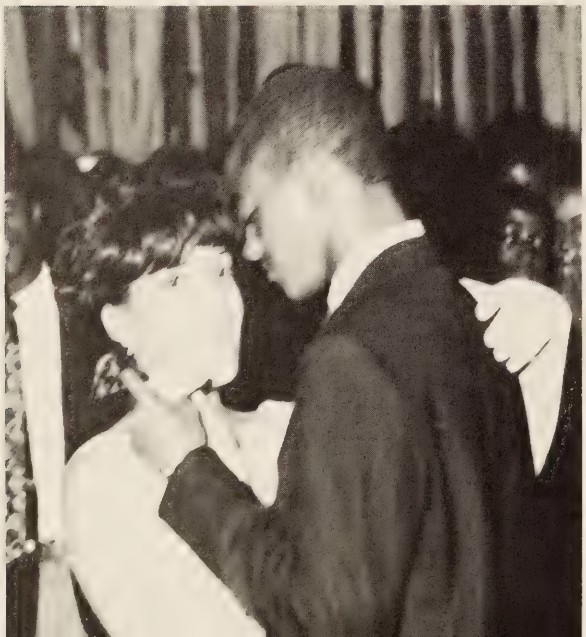
Autumn brings work, and Mr. Wilson is on hand to rake the once-green leaves.

Over four thousand feet track dirt over the halls, but Mrs. Welch goes through the never-ending ritual of cleaning the halls.

ORGANIZATIONS AND ACTIVITIES

STUDENT COUNCIL PROMOTES

The Student Participation Association is a laboratory for citizenship training. Students are given an opportunity to identify existing problems in the school and community and to suggest possible solutions for these problems.



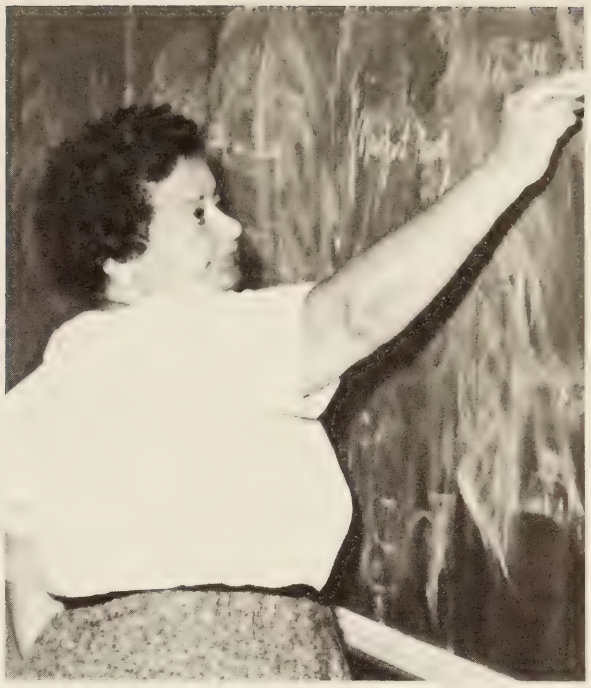
Throughout the term the Association sponsors many activities that keep school spirit at a high level.

Homecoming is one of the many Student Participation Association projects designed to accomplish this goal.

Miss Enomie Tibbs, our Homecoming Queen, and her escort, Findolph Taylor, gracefully open the evening activities by stepping onto the floor to begin the first dance of the enjoyable Homecoming Ball.

SCHOOL SPIRIT

Under the capable leadership of Miss Mable Smith, this valuable and important organization is able to carry out its major activities for the benefit of all Huntington.



HALL PATROL

Recommendations from homeroom teachers, individual ability, and sincerity are just a few of the prerequisites required to become a member of the Student Hall Patrol.

These young men are vested with the formidable responsibility of controlling traffic in the halls and curbing line-cutting in the cafeteria.

Sharon Dorsey and Jessie Price sort attendance statistics at the end of the month.

Susan Lynch stops in the hall to confer with Janice Williams (RIGHT) as they go about their duties as members of the attendance committee.

RING OUT THE OLD

Mrs. N. Grandberry, attendance chairman, demonstrates to student assistants P. Burrell, J. Roddy, and B. Davis how attendance used to be tallied. Now, thank goodness for IBM!

FTA AND MATH CLUBS JOIN FORCES TO PRODUCE QUALITY CITIZENS FOR TOMORROW

Members of the Charles R. Drew chapter of the Future Teachers of America find learning of the qualifications for becoming a quality teacher, entertaining the patients at the Patrick Henry Hospital, and sponsoring the Veterans' Day assembly exciting activities. In addition to these activities the club entertains the cadet teachers at an annual social. Miss L. M. Weaver is the club's sponsor.

Roland Lynch ponders over the mathematical cone to discover which planes are passing through the cone and at which angles.

The mathematics club plays an integral part in the development of young scientific minds. Fostering a program which is dedicated to the strengthening of mathematical interest throughout the school, the club reaches out to all students who with to pursue some discipline in the area of mathematics. Under the advisorship of teachers of mathematics, the club received many honors at the science-math conference.

CORTEZ PETERS ENTERTAINS STUDENTS AT FBLA ASSEMBLY

DANCING TYPEWRITER
Cortez Peters, the world-renowned typist, highlights the installation program with a dazzling display of speed and accuracy.

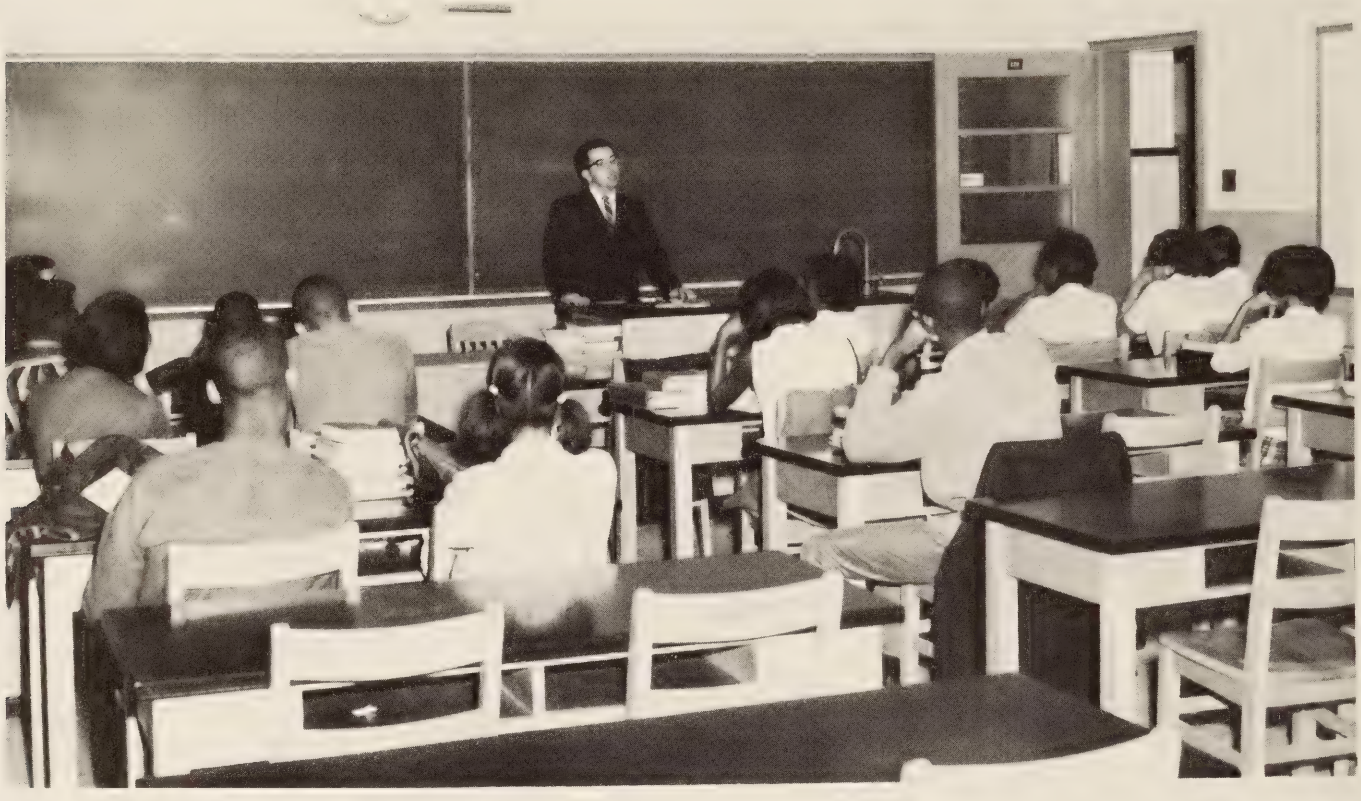
FBLA OFFICERS INSTALLED
Members of the FBLA observe the candle lighting ceremony during the annual installation program. They are: C. Kersey, S. Rose, C. Layne, Miss R. Haltiwanger, J. Boothe, C. Grant, E. Melvin, A. Johnson, T. Stepheson, and B. Scott.

FUTURE BUSINESS LEADERS OF AMERICA

As as active organization in the school's program for better educational opportunities for youth, the Future Business Leaders of America concerns itself with developing competent and aggressive leaders in the field of business.

Its members participate in worthy undertakings for the improvement of business and the community, in addition to assisting local charitable organizations with clerical work.

STUDENTS OF SCIENCE HEAR NASA SPEAKER



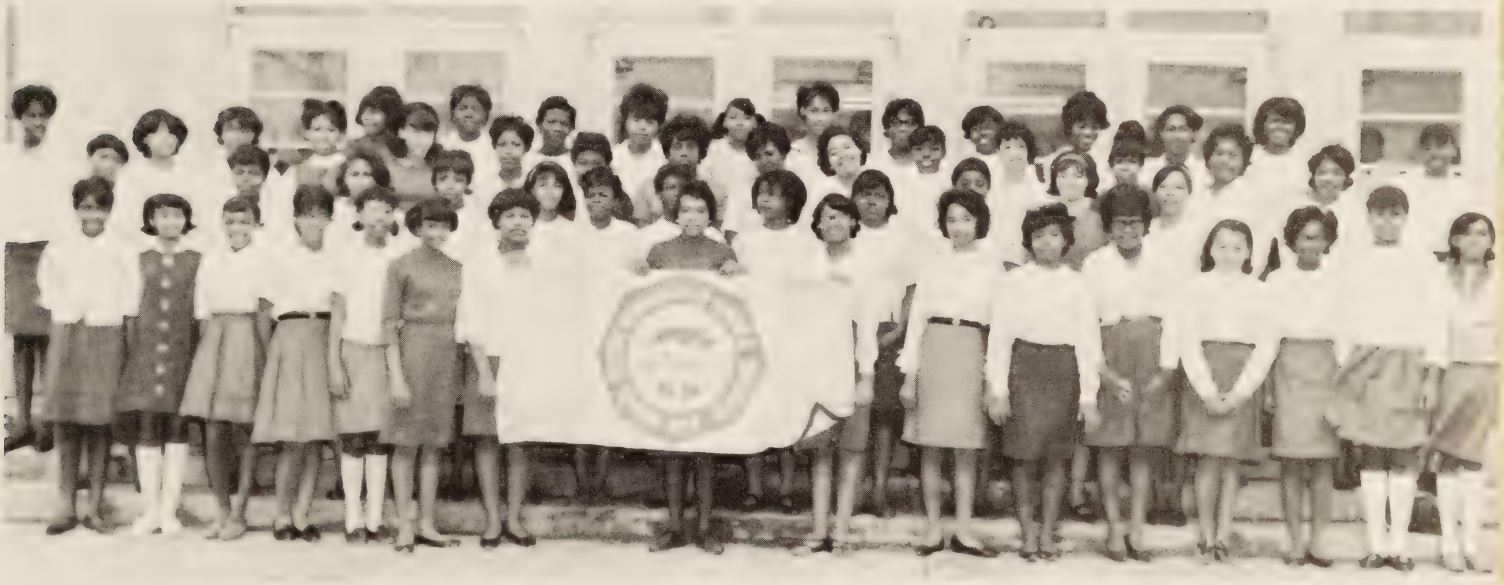
At one of the meetings of the science club, Mr. Brian E. Pritchard discusses "Stepping Stones to the Scientific Exploration of Mars."

Affording opportunities for engagement in scientific research, the science club serves in conjunction with the science department at Huntington. Members of the club anticipate the annual science conference which allows them to display projects which they have prepared for the affair.

Mr. Pritchard of NASA points out orbital paths of the planets as Deborah Powell, president of the club, Mr. J. T. Fougher, Jr. of the American Institute of Aeronautics and Astronautics, and Mr. T. M. Spencer, sponsor, look on.

TOMORROW'S HOMEMAKERS BEGIN PREPARATIONS

The Future Homemakers of America Club serves as a medium through which young ladies may learn the economics of managing a home. Priscilla Ray, Shirley Alston, Nettie Branch, Gwendolyn Holiday, Phyliss Fladger (with candle) Mrs. M. Palmer, home economics instructor, and Janis Roddy participate in the installation assembly for the organization.



BOYS' AND GIRLS' CULTURE CLUBS INTERPRETS SOCIAL MODE

Every society endeavors to perpetuate its culture through its younger generation by handing down customs which have proven to be in the best interest of all its members. The culture clubs were established for this purpose, and after three years of existence at Huntington, they have proven themselves most valuable in exposing students to socially acceptable behavior patterns in many areas of their lives. In addition to this, the boys' and girls' culture clubs have offered assistance to other school organizations in an effort to improve the cultural atmosphere at Huntington and the general morale of the student body.

Many school improvement programs are the result of close cooperation between the boys' and girls' culture clubs. Raymond Charity and Alda Nelson confer on a club project to be presented in the next meeting.

DEBATING SOCIETY STRESSES COMMUNICATIVE SKILLS

Al Vern Norman, Evelyn Bradley, Angela Cooper, Darrilyn Vassar, Sherrelle East, Roland Lynch (ROW 2) Willie Henry, Terrelle Davis, Betty Norman, Joyce Roddy, Rose Hilliard, Gloria Chapman, Calvin Walker, Walter Mitchell, Samuel Weston, Jerry Dickens, Harvey Lockett.

Effective communication and reasoning have taken a special seat at the table occupied by leaders of the world. In view of this fact, the debating society has set out to develop within the members the ability to meet the ever-rising demand for better speakers and thinkers. The society's program includes participation in classroom, intramural, and interscholastic debates.

Diane Chavis and Joyce Roddy lend an attentive ear to Roland Lynch as he presents the pros and cons of the honor system.

MIRROR GAINS POPULARITY

The school's newspaper, the Mirror, is published semiannually by members of the junior and senior classes. Staff members learn journalistic procedures by working on this publication. Because it contains all of the latest news around the campus, the paper has proven to be a big success.

A. Norman, O. Wgitehead, D. Hawkins, C. Charity, F. Reid, S. Miller, D. Andrews, J. Parker, B. White, W. Henry.

Learning the wise use of leisure time through such activities as photography, electronics, and metal arts and crafts is an objective which binds members of the hobby club together. The club offers wide experiences in many fields of avocational endeavor.

F. Pope, J. Harrison, H. Tenbrook, M. Price, and C. Batts learn that good photography involves more than snapping a shutter, as Mr. R. McGhee, advisor, demonstrates ways of making proper focal adjustments.

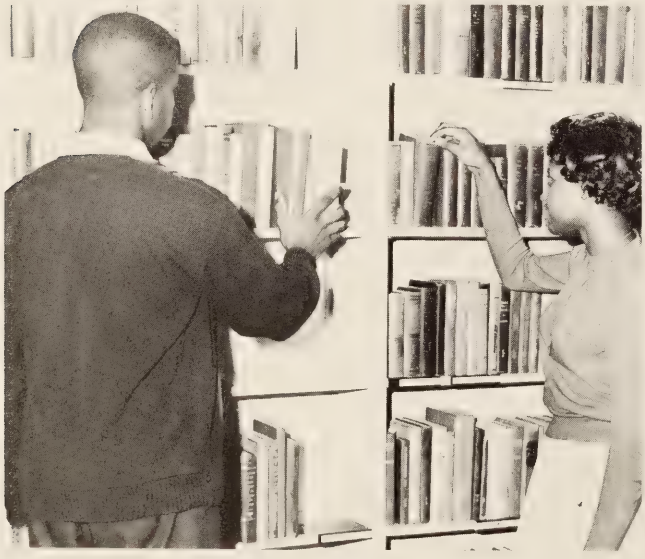
DOUBLE EXPOSURE
While David Bouldin looks like he is visiting his twin brother, he knows that it's only the tricky photography of Micheal Hargraves who seems to have some tricky film.

McKinley Price, a junior, demonstrates his adjusting skills on the enlarger as James Harrison watches attentively.

LIBRARY CLUB ENDORSES EXTENSIVE READING

SEATED: M. Sledge, M. Douglas, P. Aytch, J. Hawkins, D. Powell, A. Godwin; STANDING: G. Fleming, J. Lassiter, A. Whitehead, S. Christian, C. Green, T. Wesley, P. Savage, S. Miller, E. Holley, S. Judge.

The Library Club, under the sponsorship of Mrs. R. McLeod, encourages students to increase their reading interest and seeks to improve the library program in the school. National Book Week and National Library Week are celebrated through the presentation of programs involving student participation.



During their leisure time Deborah Powell and James Hawkins take time out to browse through the many book selections.

Shirley Miller and Ezekial Holley place book jackets on a bulletin board designed to inform students of the latest additions to the library.

The Art Club acquaints students with the effects of culture on art. It also informs the students of the vocational opportunities in the field of art and the advantages of art as a means of using leisure time wisely. Members of the club aid the school by providing backdrops for assemblies and bulletin boards in the hall showcases.

To create enthusiasm for scholarship, to instill a desire to render service, to promote competent leadership, and to encourage the development of good character are the aspirations of the Lillian M. Weaver Chapter of the National Honor Society.

Open to qualified students in their sophomore year, the NHS has contributed much to the success of the school's academic program.

FINALISTS
Mr. W. D. Scales presents certificates of merit to Roland Lynch, Vivian Freeman, Wallicia Thomas, Joyce Corbin, and Rose Hilliard, top scorers in a national achievement scholarship examination.

DEAN T. HAWKINS SPEAKS TO STUDENTS

Members of the Effie Mae Green Chapter of the National Junior Honor Society play a vital role in the promotion of scholarship, leadership, citizenship, and character development among students at Huntington and throughout the community. This organization is composed of eighth and ninth graders who strive to excel in their courses by maintaining and over-all average of "B."

Mr. Thomas Hawkins, Dean of Men at Hampton Institute, emphasizes to the student body the importance of high scholastic standards and good moral conduct.

FRENCH AND SPANISH CLUBS COMBINE LINGUISTIC EFFORTS

To enable students to speak French and Spanish with fluency is the primary objective of the French and Spanish clubs. Students learn the customs and cultures of the two languages by reading their poetry, studying their art and music, singing their songs, and performing their dances. The meetings of the two clubs are conducted in their respective languages, with the observance of Foreign Language Week comprising the major part of the groups' activities.

French students are afforded as many practical experiences as necessary in order for them to acquire an acceptable knowledge of the language.

Mrs. N. Grandberry and Mr. D. Lawrence are sponsors of the French and Spanish clubs respectively.

REALISM, REASON, RESPONSIBILITY

SOCIAL STUDIES CLUB

With the Motto: "Realism, Reason, and Responsibility," the Social Studies Club strives to promote high citizenship principles.

The club also sponsors assemblies on United Nations Day and during Negro History Week to highlight current information concerning the two observances. Under the direction of Mrs. I. Baker, this organization has developed into one of the largest extra-curricular activities at Huntington.

The Industrial Cooperative Training program at Huntington enables students to gather experience in prospective fields of employment. Members receive three hours of on-the-job training each day and one hour of related classroom training.

Although quite demanding, Practical Nursing is one of the more popular Industrial Cooperative Training courses available to students.

Mr. C. Robinson confers with Alphonso Estes, an Industrial Cooperative Training student, to determine his occupational interests as Marlene Hall looks on.

NURSING CLUB SUPPLIES PRACTICAL EXPERIENCE

Florence Nightingales, Angels of Mercy, are allusions which best describe these students, for they aspire one day to wear their white proudly and be of service to mankind.

As members of the Future Nurses of America Club, they receive valuable information relative to requirements for becoming a nurse, in addition to the close association with people already in the profession.

Distributive education students pause from a class of "busy-business" to meet their appointment with the photographer.

SENIORS MEET FINANCIAL OBLIGATIONS

Much of the success of the yearbook is accredited to the strenuous work and time given by the members of the advertising staff: Ernest Mason, Gary Palmer, David Bines, Charles Cheek, Julius Webster, Steven Travis and Roland Rice.

Miss Barham, one of the yearbook advisors, is in charge of collecting money from the seniors for patrons. Celestine Charity and Henrietta Blair turn in money as Elmira Banks writes the reciepts.

At the end of a hard day of soliciting advertisements for the Huntingtonian, Howard Jones and Leonard James go to the annual room to tally the day's report.

SATURDAYS FIND HUNTINGTONIAN STAFF BUSILY AT WORK

Mr. G. Blakeney, Miss P. Johnson, yearbook advisors, and Joyce Roddy inspect prospective pictures for the HUNTINGTONIAN, as Julius Webster begins to work on the initial stages of yearbook production.

JULIUS WEBSTER HOLDS POST AS EDITOR

Julius Webster, a familiar person around Huntington, works closely with the faculty advisers and the seniors to insure that the demands of producing a reputable book of memories are met.

HARD WORK YIELDS JOY AND SATISFACTION

Producing a yearbook is quite a chore, for it involves many hours of hard work and concentration. There is an air of satisfaction throughout the staff and student body when the finished product is returned to the school for distribution. Through the efforts and cooperation of the administration, the faculty, the student body, and the community, the yearbook, an organ of public relations and a reminder to the seniors of the many happy days spent at Huntington, everyone is able to smile with relief when the job is finished.

Pearl Mills and Peggy Sneed apply the skills which they learned in advanced typing to the insurmountable task of reading manuscript, typing, revising, typing again, and finally proofreading.

While Joyce Roddy (RIGHT) continues her task of typing editorials, Carolyn Batts and Cynthia Layne proofread material which is ready for the press.

A CAPELLA CHOIR

A group which has distinguished itself in the area of choral music, the a capella choir, under the auspices of Mr. A. W. Bouldin, has served as ambassadors of good will throughout the state for many years. The many hours of diligent practice are stepping stones toward perfection, the ideal to which the choir aspires. Appearances on the major television networks, concerts throughout the tide-area, and providing good musical entertainment at school during the Christmas and Spring concerts are but a few of the honors and responsibilities which the members of the choir enjoy.

The sun has hardly peeped over the horizon, and it finds Dorothy Valentine (left) Delores Holland, and Claretta Edwards at a 7:30 rehearsal in preparation for the Christmas concert.

STUDENTS FIND MUSICAL EXPRESSION IN CHORAL PARTICIPATION

Boys add a foundation to the quality of the choral music. They are: Dallas Corey, William Nelson, Tyrone Christian.

. . . and James Cheek (far left) Malcolm Mason, James Tatum, Frederick Reid, Sylvester Judge, Woodrow Gilliam.

The presence of the girls at the morning rehearsal add quality also. They are: Luvenia Chatten, Mary Bradley, Dierdra Criss, Louise Gregory, Rene Miller, Lillian Harris, Shirley Page.

GIRLS' CHORUS

In its infancy the girls' chorus has earned the love and respect of people throughout the community. Joining the a capella choir in its annual concerts, the chorus made its initial appearance dressed in maroon skirts and white blouses, an attire which it has adopted as the official uniform.

EIGHTH GRADER ACCOMPANIES MUSICAL ORGANIZATION
Mary Marshall has made a name for herself by having demonstrated her excellent musicianship as the accompanist for the girls' chorus.

Eloise Whitehead (far left), Valarie Barrett, Dottie Jones, Brenda Hayes, Patricia Avent, Sandra, Diggs, Sandra Synaker, Ingrid Lockett, Jackolean Martin, Barbara Higgins, Patricia Harris.

The cultural up-lifting of students' experiences is a task which brings profit to everyone, especially if the experiences are musical. Music delights the sick and the healthy, the rich and the poor, and the weary and the strong. It brings spiritual rise to all.

Music, like the other phases of the fine arts, often casts one into various moods and temperaments. Mr. A. W. Bouldin, a veteran musical conductor, reflects a solemn expression as the date of the festival draws near. But on stage, when the curtain is drawn, the delightful tone quality of the students warrants a smile of approbation.

HUNTINGTON EXPANDS MUSICAL PROGRAM

The recorder is no match for the brass instruments, a fact which James Gillespie, Haywood Davis, William Howell, Allan Williams, Calvin Davis, and Joel Joyner demonstrate.

"Profiles of Courage" is the order of the day, as Mr. W. R. Herring strikes up the band.

Harry Johnson, Norman Vick, and Raymond Boyd give an extra boost to the crescendo during one of the practice sessions.

ORCHESTRA DEBUTS

The cymbals ring out and the drums roll as Thomas Jolly, Marshall Gunter, and Terry White wait for their cue. (Below) are clarinetists Lawrence Butler, Patrese Frances, Carolyn Pittman, and Antionette Williams.

Hannon Lane and Edward West synchronize their bow movement to assure a pleasing sound.

Renee Harrison, Natolie Harrar, Alma Gale, Demetrius Hampton, Veerland Thompson, Edward Jones (ROW 2) Harold Shields, Brenda Johnson, Levin Grimes. Sherrelle East, Eula Brown, Pearl Lowery, (ROW 3) Anthonette Echols, Antonette Williams, Sarah Coles.

Audrey Jones, Elaine Ward, Sylvia Holley, Linda Mercado find that the flute and the oboe suit their musical tastes.

Lawrence Dillard, Christopher Bailey, Purcell Robinson, and Lorenzo Brown can testify to the fact that the sousaphone add much depth to the musical selections at a dress rehearsal.

The marching band and the symphonic band have given freely of their services in the neighboring communities. In addition to active participation in parades held by civic organizations, the band provides delightful half-time entertainment at all football games with special renditions at Homecoming. Both bands, under the baton of Mr. W. R. Herring, attempt to meet the musical world's need for quality musicians.

Woodwinds with their melodious tone quality find themselves in the capable hands of Jacqueline McNair, Darryl Travis, Edward Christian, and Willie Henry.

BAND DEVELOPS LATENT TALENTS

As members of the band, students receive an opportunity to develop musical talents which ordinarily might never be discovered. By participating in either of the two bands or both, the students may learn to play as many as four different instruments. They also may earn full academic credit which may be used to fulfill requirements for graduation.

PEABODY'S DEFENSE CLOSES IN ON HUNTINGTON'S HALFBACK

Huntington halfback, Collins Whitaker, finds his running assignment blocked by Peabody defenders. In spite of this, Collins manages to gain two yards on this play.

Vikings Conquer Opponents

Huntington High School's football team enjoyed a 7-2-1 record in 1965. This was good enough to capture the Peninsula VIA Championship and place them in contention for the Eastern District crown No one fore-Eastern District crown. No one foresaw accomplishments of this degree from a team with only three starters from last year's team and a converted basketball player at the quarterback position. However, under the guidance and inspiration of the coaching staff, the team performed well throughout most of the season. Indicative of the caliber of play shown by the team was the selection of William Dunn, David Taylor, James Perkins, Walter Bowser, Clilan Harmon, Glenn Newby, Derek Faison, George Williams, Adolph Hawkins, and Larry Briggs for the Virginia Interscholastic Association All-Peninsula Team.

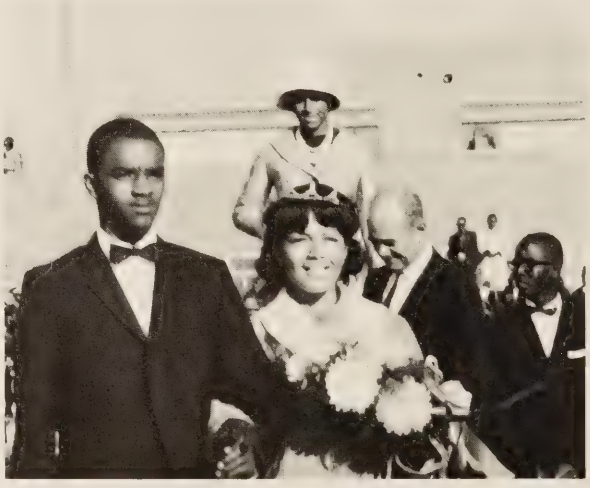
ENOMIE . . . Miss Homecoming Reigns Over Her Subjects

A QUEEN IS CROWNED
Homecoming queen Enomie Tibbs awaits anticipatingly the bestowing of her title as Mr. W. D. Scales places the crown upon her head.

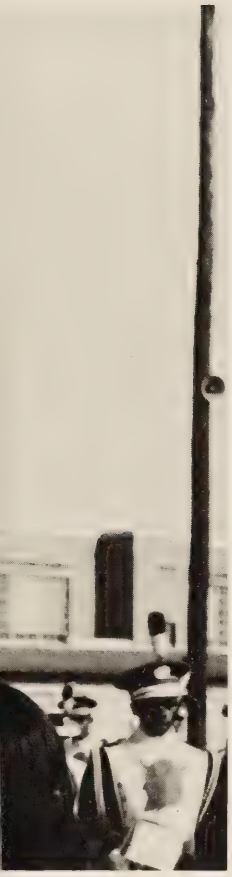
Homecoming activities at Huntington have always proven to be the most electrifying of school events. This year was no exception.

Enomie Tibbs, a senior and a member of Mr. W. B. Thomas' homeroom, was elected to this honor by an overwhelming majority on the basis of her charm.

Enomie Tibbs receives her bouquet of carnations.



Amid thundering applause from her subjects, Enomie is escorted by Findolph Taylor.



A ROYAL SALUTE
Miss Homecoming waves to her loyal subjects as the procession moves onto the field.

CLUB SWEETHEARTS
Wallicia Thomas (SEATED IN FRONT), Patricia Carter, Evelyn Bradley, Darrilyn Vassar, and Woodrena Brown are being driven onto the athletic field to join the coronation ceremony. These lovely belles were selected by their respective clubs to represent them during the homecoming festivities.

SENIORS PREPARE FOR FINAL GAME
Whether these smiles are ones of joy or smiles to hide their nostalgia only Shirley Whitaker, Alda Nelson, and Rosanna Rainey know.

CHEERLEADERS BOOST MORALE

Boosting school spirit during losing streaks and promoting good sportsmanship at all athletic events, the cheerleaders afford the student body opportunities to take an active part in the sports activities at Huntington.

CHEERLEADERS DEMONSTRATE GOOD FORM
Varsity cheerleaders exhibit the form and precision that earned them a position on the squad. Encompassing the three lettered cheerleaders, Shirley Whitaker (co-captain), Alice Hawkins, and Alda Nelson (co-captain), are Gwendolyn Melvin, Maureen Wilder, Velma Corbin, Shirley Howell, Peggy Sneed, Rosanna Rainey, and Jacquelyn Edwards.

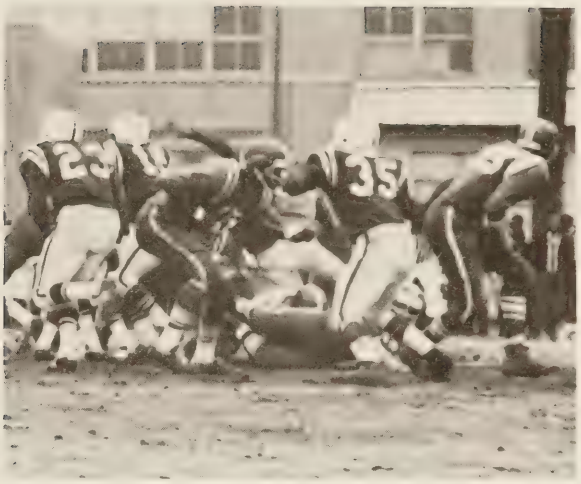
A FRIENDLY TALK???
Coach T. Bacote is an amiable sort of person; but, he is also a person who demands that his linemen play smart, aggressive football. Woe to the player who suffers a mental lapse during a crucial situation, as this Viking lineman soon learns.

Phenix players find gang tackling most effective, if not sporting, in stopping Viking ball carriers



The action is hot and furious near the end of the first half as Huntington's Vikings drive for a first down.

LIFE IN THE LOCKER ROOM
Spirits undaunted, the Vikings prepare to resume action in the second half of the game.

Clilan Harmon, a junior, takes an introspective look down the field with hopes of diverting the strategy of his opponents.

During one of the dazzling half-time shows, the majorettes display their baton twirling agility.

PENSIVE CROWD WATCHES FINAL GAME

EVERY MOMENT IS A TENSE ONE

Always a highly competitive contest, the Huntington-Phenix game draws a large crowd. Fans of both teams look on attentively as the Vikings close the football season with a hard-fought victory over their neighboring rivals.

Football is a test of moral and physical stamina, as any coach will agree. But it also takes the planning of many strategic plays for a team to be successful at its endeavors.

Ever wonder what a band director does when his band is not on the field thrilling the spectators with music and dance? From the vantage point of the conductor's step-ladder, Mr. W. R. Herring gets a bird's eye view of the action on the gridiron.

The ball is in the air for an extra point, as Huntington takes the lead over Phenix High.

There is little action on the side-line, but the team knows where it is. Fred Hopkins (front), Wilbert Noel, Kenneth Hartwell, Henry Cooke, McKinley Price, Roosevelt Askew, Edward West, Derek Faison, Glenn Newby, Jonathan Fladger, Everret Brown, Elzie Speight, LaVan Clark, Elliott White, and James Perkins watch the maneuvers of their fellow team mates.

While serving as the preliminary entertainment during the basketball games, the Junior Varsity is a group of young men who acquires practical training in the area of basketball. The training which the members of the team receive often proves invaluable when the time comes for the selection of the first-string team. Under the leadership of Coach G. Hartman, the team made an excellent showing at many of the games.

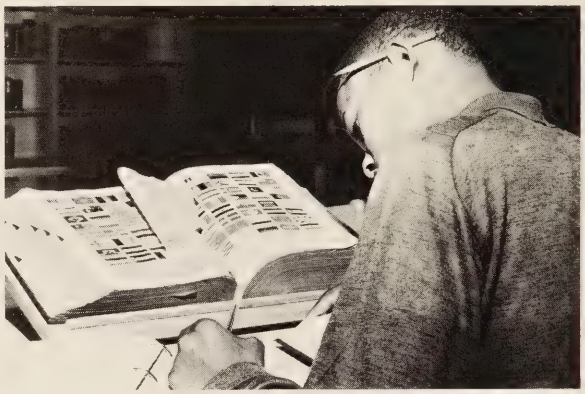
UNDERCLASSMEN

SELF-FULFILLMENT LEADS TO SELF-UNDERSTANDING

Huntington High School seeks to fulfill the quest for knowledge which students may endeavor to acquire. It is only through a well-rounded curriculum that such a goal can be realized. Through its many facilities, students find classes and activities which best suit their immediate and future needs.



Cecil Pugh finds the answers to many of the questions which plague him through the use of school's library facilities.

TODAY'S LITTLE GIRLS ARE TOMORROW'S HOMEMAKERS
Brenda Johnson and Valerie Edwards find sewing a very useful skill, in that it will afford them the opportunity and pleasure to make their own clothes in future years.

The worlds of today and tomorrow are asking for young men and women who are productive. Education is attemping to supply these worlds with such people, and it is through the efforts of educators, parents, and the members of the community that the job will be accomplished.

Tenth Graders Study All Living Things

Some things in this vast world are too small to be seen with the naked eye. Wymona Burrest and Beverly Jones cast a discerning eye through the microscope to discover the microorganisms of the world as Edwin Hall takes copious notes for Biology I.

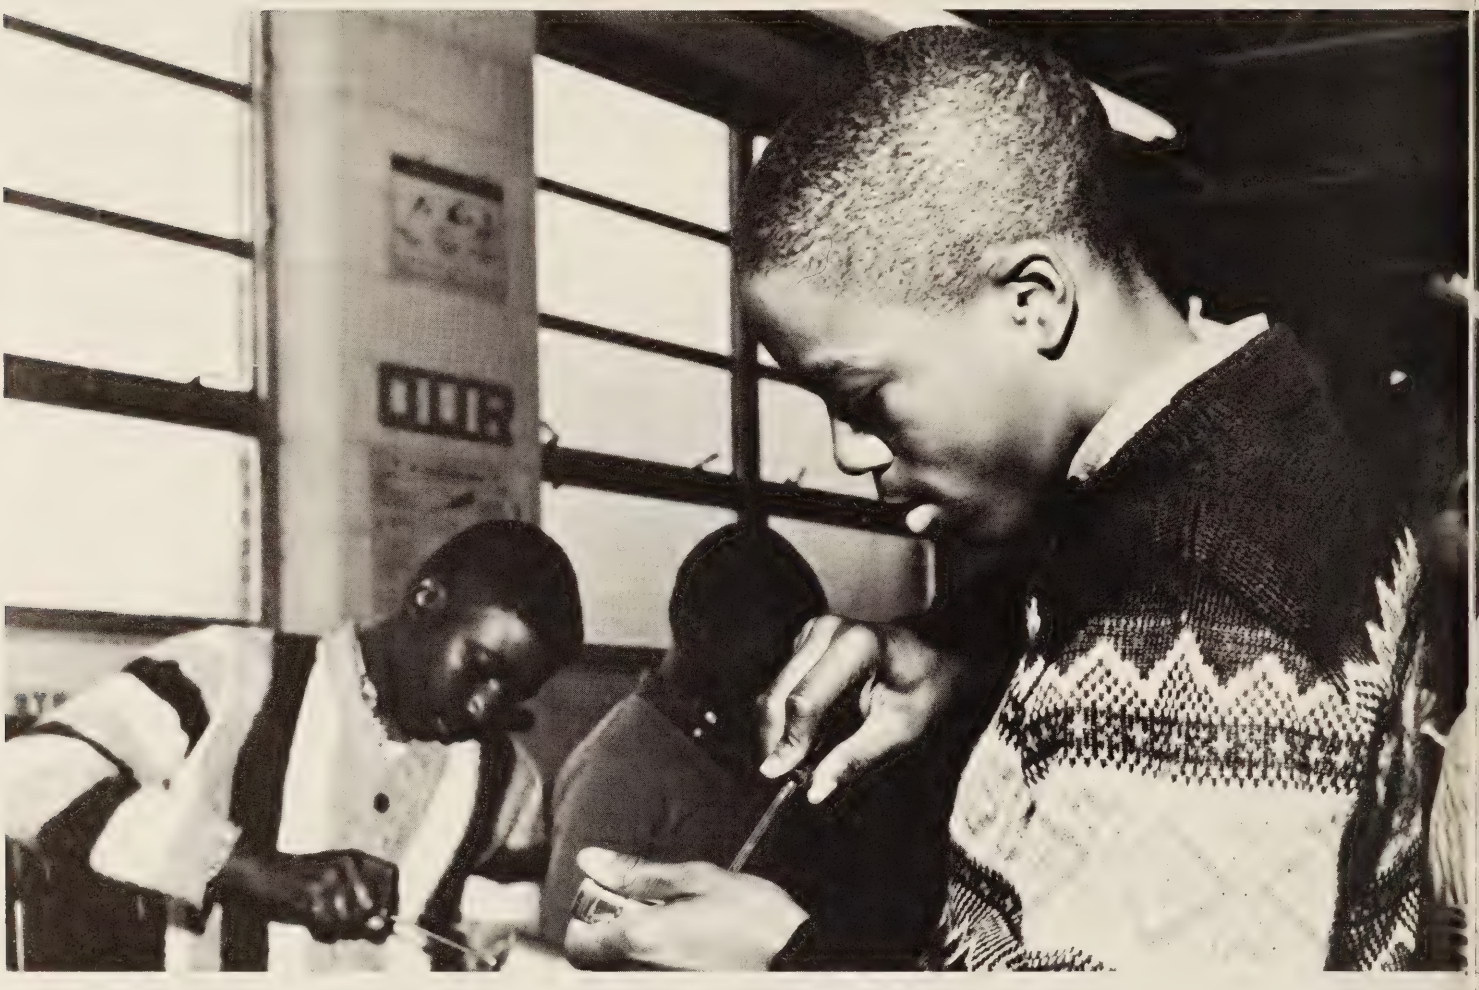
Larry Horne, Dale Foster, and Ronald Winship (BACK) listen attentively to the explanation of the assignment in Math 1A.

Mr. H. Smith of the industrial arts department demonstrates to Elzie Speight and Richard Wills (STANDING) fundamentals of house construction.

Junior Ruth Davis puts her back hand swing into good use in her physical education class.

Mrs. Ruth Perry lends some helpful assistance to Joan Wood and McKinley Price in the selection of appropriate books for their English classes.

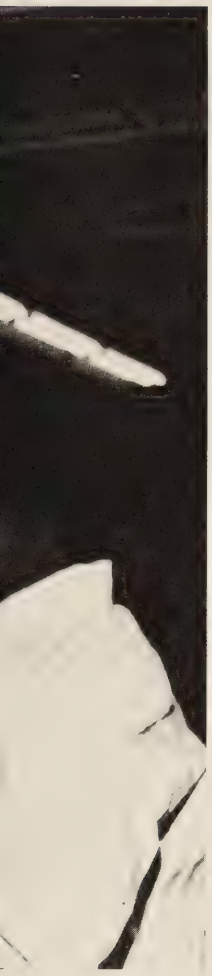
STUDENTS LEARN BY DOING



Eugene McCoy, an eighth grader in Mr. R. Mc Ghee's industrial arts class, finds it necessary to make final checks on the wiring in his prospective lamp. His classmate, Larry Price, adds the finishing gouch to his lamp.

The theory behind a major principle is one aspect of learning, but practical application also provides an everlasting picture in one's mind.

Paulette Taylor and Patricia Horne, seniors, apply their home economics skills as they demonstrate their roll making ability.



Mattie Fair, Mary Fair, and Patricia Harris find that sewing can be fun, especially if it is done under the close supervision of capable teachers.

With the assurance that woodworking will be of value to them, either as a vocation or avocation, Leonard Sledge, Lance Jones (first table), Steven Malloy, Harry Johnson, and Richard Dorsey develop skills in cabinetmaking as Mr. W. L. Jones looks on.

Henrietta Blair makes herself useful as a receptionist in the guidance center during her study period. She assists Wilbert Noel in the signing-in process while Emily Peters catches up on her assignments.

Cynthia Stepheson (STANDING) and Ivy Sedgwick engage in a bit of chit-chat between English classes, while Janice Graves and Francine Williams carry on their private conversation.

The slide rule proves to be an invaluable instrument in the physics class. Dwight Crewe expedites much time in mathematical computation, and Darrilyn Vassar checks the figures for accuracy.

STUDENTS FIND THEIR PLACES IN CLASSES AND OFFICES

Education involves more than merely going to classes daily, taking notes on what is discussed, and cramming for examinations. It is concerned with finding a personality, developing it, refining it, and sending it out into the world to confront the many problems which exist from day to day. All of such training finds nourishment in the schools throughout the country, and Huntington is no exception in the never-ending fight against ignorance.

LIFE AT HUNTINGTON COVERS MANY AREAS

Students are afforded the opportunity to engage in many activities which aid in the development of a sense of responsibility. (ABOVE) Shirley Miller and Yvonne Arrington (STANDING) give assistance during their study period in the IBM scheduling room.

The band, no less than any other organization, plays a vital role in aiding students in finding their hidden musical talents.

Mixing chemicals, attending lectures, applying their skills learned in mathematics, and enjoying the refreshing humor of Mr. W. Holmes are but a few of the activities which make chemistry an enjoyable subject for these sophomores and juniors.

Miss D. Thomas, a veteran English teacher, gestures to her class in an endeavor to get the point across.

SENIORS TAKE OFFICE

Leading the class of 1966 through a full year of meetings were Henrietta Blair, secretary; Rosemarie Perry, vice president; Edward Christian, president; Celestine Charity, chaplain; (SECOND ROW) Curtis Clarke, treasurer; Amanda Banks, assistant secretary; and Charles Cheek, reporter.

Mr. M. C. Calloway, senior class adviser, measures Celestine Charity for her ring.

Curtis Clarke, an all-around student has distinguished himself in many of the school activities during his tenure at Huntington.
